Story: Salva Tierra, loosely translates to “salt of the earth”, and is named after Virginia Salvatierra, Denise Renteria’s mother. Raised on a coffee plantation in Costa Rica, Virginia reared Denise with deep respect for the land. Salva Tierra, the wine, is crafted from a similar respect for terroir.

Vineyards: The Cabernet Sauvignon grapes from the Shooting Star Vineyard in Pope Valley, have tannins that give the wine depth and finesse, and soften the wine, bringing out its elegance, and making the wine drinkable at an early age. The warmer microclimate of the Shooting Star Vineyard adds to the wine’s concentration and extraction and results in a luscious rich Cabernet Sauvignon.

Tasting Notes: The calling card of this great vintage is the depth and richness of the wines, while still maintaining a smooth and silky texture, without being too extracted or overripe. The wines balance the luscious Napa Valley fruit and the elegance of a wine with intense history. The wine is full of depth and complexity with typical Napa Valley Cabernet characteristics. The aroma is very fruit forward dominated by the blackberry notes, and underlying cassis and anise. The mouthfeel is deep and rich with plenty of big tannins for cellaring.
